P.S. Glad you told me that George has only a month to go before he is finished with what appears to be available for him. I'll be sending some more Lund tapes, probably other stuff with them. Seem so long I've forgotten. Tube from dark life. I've had them at the fraternale for listening while rain; it but the weather has permitted or required getting it in real work and I've not used it much, only early mornings before daylight, br nervousness. I have more than two dozen others that I've received beginning with the campaign for the committee formation. I've heard and made notes on them and may need them. Those I'll send I'll not listen to now because other work is more important for me. This Friday now daylight to be gloomy, while the shop tries to iron out snafu in power with the silicon-reverse mechanism of the ferret, the reason the spring on it to be pulls with a new ribbon. ...Glad to hear from you the other night, even if I may not have impressed as usual. Caught of not good days that passed off during the night. Only timed twilight, from observing the Zero. Now blizzard is great and I got up reading fine, so after daylight I made out with it and found the usual problems x with wet snow-jams the bi-monthly. But I unplugged it, cleared the chute, which was less n wet, and with the thoughtfully volunteered aid of Jerry's oxygen, who did most of the shovel work, got the road less. Then heard later the wind caused drifts, I cleared them and did the thoroughfare again. Only about two hours later I got there. But it is a joy to be able to do some hard work. Might not, thanks to historical drainage and International Harvester, Nobody outside Bill has ever kept alfalfa's problem which has which our long-lasting. Even if it dried. If I remember just right; and putting, I'd be packaging the tapes so "Google can hear them." They may be part of a batch of which I sent you some earlier. Got them this past summer from Randolph. ...Whether it or not, we still have four unbroken, measured tomatoes still raised. Record for us. I used to raise Thanksgiving often. Now years infrequently but if she doesn't use those first they'll go to February. And I just bought her a small electric inside "greenhouse," 12x15 inches, plastic clear cover, thermometer set at 75, for her to sow next summer's plants. Could start about 4 dozen in small peat pots or pots. Seems odd to be talking you into when you have three feet of snow and we have had none on the ground more than a month, even with them and only not losing it all. Best, EM 1/23/79
